Local to global: From a trade-led recovery
to a more resilient Britain

On Wednesday 15 November 2023, there emerges a flagship international trade event, with the IOE&IT hosting the Import Export Show.

Held at the Leonardo Royal, London City Hotel, London,
the inaugural Import Export Show will bring together
senior figures from the global trade community, including a line-up of key business leaders and policymakers, to address how trade can deliver for the UK.

Overview

Speakers from across the international trade community will discuss everything from the UK's changing place in the world to the role of digitalisation in creating a fairer and greener trading environment.

This unmissable end-of-year event will connect trade professionals working across multiple sectors - including MSMEs and large multinationals - giving you the opportunity to create long-lasting working relationships and share best practice.

Meet, connect, innovate

The Import Export Show is your chance to both hear influential speakers and to influence key government and industry stakeholders on all trade-related matters.

We've invited the best minds and leading decision makers on key international trade topics such as government policy, levelling up, sustainability, trade finance, digitalisation and so much more.

There will be ample opportunities for networking and questions, giving you the opportunity to get your voice heard and learn from your peers.
